From Mother C

There's just something about Christmas - something way beyond - that goes deep in our experiences of life. This has been one of those wonderful Christmases that I will never forget. Of course, the Christmas Eve service was awesome. How can we ever forget what God has done for us. Our worship service was so meaningful. The church was filled and the music was tremendous. We were blessed with great organ and choir music. Sara French, who plays the trumpet so well, joined us this year and enhanced our music and hymns. Cecil Van Houten treated us to beautiful arrangements of our old favorite Christmas hymns like "Away in the Manger" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem." Ellie Boutwell, once again, sang "O Holy Night" in her beautiful flowing soprano. Catherine Herrick, four years old, placed the baby Jesus in the creche. Tom and Carol Bidwell and Cecil offered a medley of many of our favorite Communion songs. The church looked magnificent, as usual, and how can anyone forget singing "Silent Night" accompanied by guitar, as it was originally done, while the church glowed with candlelight only.

But this Christmas was even more than that. Many wonderful things happened here. We decided to spend $400 to provide Christmas for a family. That was all set, but then, there were more suggestions of need. So, we added $270 for a second Christmas surprise, $350 for another Christmas surprise and then, $200 for another! It just seemed the right thing to do, and I thank all of you who have been out spending your time and shopping for others.

And then, Bruce White showed up at my door. Do you remember the "Talent Sunday" we had a few weeks ago? Well, Bruce laid his $5.00 on a table in front of his friends and said, "This is my five dollars. We're going to pay someone's heating bill this month, so you need to add yours to it." Well they, bless them all, did, and Bruce brought me $170 to help pay someone's heating bill. As he left, he said, "I believe I have some more coming, but you can start with that."

But this Christmas was even more than that, and it was more than spending time with family, and the phone calls and the expressions of love and the exchange of gifts.

This is the best one of all. It all started in November at the Annual Holiday Bazaar that Nancy French so generously organizes for us. Every year she has a White Elephant table, and on that table this year was a cloth rabbit. The rabbit was about sixteen inches tall, and was dressed in the loveliest of dresses. She really was entirely too beautiful (thank you whoever donated her) to leave on the White Elephant table, so I bought her, thinking I would find some child who needed her.

She's been sitting around my house, and I finally gave her to someone to give to a child she knew. This child lives in a home where they have very little. Her parents, who barely take care of her physical needs, too often, overwhelmed by life, forget this little girl's emotional needs. The child is four years old, very bright, and I believe in need of more emotional support from those around her. She spends her days coloring in old phone books (I found out she has no paper of her own), and making pictures and cutting them apart to make puzzles which she takes apart and puts together. She was described as whiney, and doesn't sleep well, waking up often and seeking attention.

I want you to know that the rabbit from the Holiday Bazaar (that we gave wrapped as a gift) has changed her life. She loves it; it's new name is "Baby." Baby now quietly sits in her lap at all meals. Baby goes everywhere with her. This little girl has turned the box the rabbit came in into a little "wagon" to pull Baby with her wherever she goes. She has taken an old pillow from the couch, and an old blanket and made room for Baby to sleep by her at night. For the first time, this child goes to sleep at a decent time, with her arm around Baby, and sleeps the night through. This "silly," but wonderful rabbit has provided a lonely child with a sense of security that she has needed for a long time. I guess you just never know what a White Elephant rabbit can do; but God does.

This is the miracle of Christmas. This is the wonder of it all. This is how Christ works in our world. He uses us, and we are so privileged and humbled to be trusted to participate with him to help change the lives of others.

And now you know why I love being here and working and sharing with you; you bring me joy. Much love to all of you. God bless+ you and give you health and happiness in the New Year.

Talent Sunday

On Sunday, November 16, our lessons included the Parable of the Talents. After the sermon, Sandy+ passed out some "talents" to everyone at the service, and caught up with some more of you at a later time! What you hold belongs to God, but it will be in your care until the first Sunday of June (June 7) in 2009. On that Sunday, after our morning service, we will join together for a pot-luck brunch and share some of our stories of what we have done with our "talents." It is wonderful that everyone was willing to participate, and we look forward to hearing about the account of your journeys.

BISHOP SINGH'S VISIT DECEMBER 7

Bishop Singh made his annual visit to St. James' on December 7. During the service he consecrated the new Water Vat and Aspergillum and twelve linen Purificators in memory of Sandra M. Williams. Carol Battaglia and William Wilson were Confirmed, and Stephanie Wilson, Robert Battaglia, and Donella Barney were Received on that day. We presented Bishop Singh with Jerry Lange's new book on the Windows of St. James'. Following the morning service, the Bishop joined us for brunch and conversation in the Undercroft. Below is the letter he sent:

Dear Saints of St. James',

Thank you for a wonderful and substantive enjoyment during my recent visit with you. It was a true Joy to share stories, thoughts, visions and good food (including that special ice cream) with you. Thank you for everything, including the gifts of wine, music and the joy of serving Christ, the Incarnate Word. Blessings and peace. ☐Prince

••••Many members of St. James' turned out for Apple Pie Day. The apples, donated by Jeff and Kathy Kennedy were washed, peeled and sliced by the kitchen crew. The assembly crew, headed by Mary White (Chair of the whole event) put together 220 pies, which netted a profit of $1540 to be used for missions. We owe sincere thanks to Snug Harbor who donated all the pie tins and to Mary and Bruce White who donated all the other ingredients. We also need to thank Mary, who sets this up every year, and everyone who worked for this wonderful mission project.
